Would you like to offer Travel Benefits at highly discounted rates to your customers while at the same time generating revenue?

Here is how it works:

On popular public retail travel sites, for example, Expedia and Priceline, hotel prices don't vary much because of the industry's rate parity policies. Rate parity can be defined as maintaining consistent rates for the same product across all online distribution channels. Conversely, on a customer's only or corporate website which require a rebate code to login, rate parity does not apply.

As one of the nation's largest distributors of member's only and corporate discount sites, we are able to:

- Access highly discounted rates from multiple suppliers and from the hotels direct to over 800,000 hotels worldwide.
- Provide access to thousands of industry only 'unpublished' rates and other exclusive discounts on high-end resorts, vacation rentals, flights, cars and cruises.
- Rates with legitimate saving of up to 70% off public websites including the hotel's own website.

While the discounted rates provide unmatched savings to your customers, we can optionally add markup to those rates which will then generate profit for your company on every reservation made.

This allows our partners to provide unique travel benefits for their customers and/or employees.
